HELPING ENTREPRENEURIAL WOMEN LIVING IN POVERTY BUILD BUSINESSES TO ENABLE FINANCIAL MOBILITY

Nearly 25 million households¹ remain unbanked or underbanked in the U.S. — and, relative to men, women are more likely to be excluded from the financial mainstream and are less likely to have a credit score. Inequitable access to financing and credit history creates significant barriers for low-income women to build their businesses and generate income, perpetuating this cycle of poverty.

Grameen America, Inc. (GAI) is a non-profit microfinance institution focused on helping entrepreneurial women living in poverty boost their income, build assets, access the mainstream financial system and create jobs in their communities. GAI provides investors with a low-risk opportunity to help these women build their businesses and increase economic mobility. GAI manages a loan fund that makes micro-business loans to women across the United States; all borrowers are women living below the federal poverty line, for whom the mainstream financial system is currently out of reach. GAI's members are women running small businesses — such as a hair salon, a cleaning business, or a small restaurant — who have previously had few options for accessing capital, with most lacking bank accounts and credit scores. Unlike mainstream lenders, GAI does not require collateral or a credit history, and instead relies on the “social capital” baked into the group lending model, where cohorts of borrowers meet with GAI staff on a regular basis to make payments and receive training.

In addition to its lending practices, GAI provides wraparound services including (1) financial literacy training, (2) asset building, and (3) credit building; in 2017, GAI launched additional educational programs around social awareness (health, benefits access, etc.) and digital training (creating email IDs, online banking, etc.).

Every $1 invested into the GAI program will be recycled 12 times over the duration of the loan. GAI has established itself as a skilled microfinance operator that has recovered over 99% of loans disbursed since 2008.

INVESTMENT SPOTLIGHT

Fifteen years ago, Matilde was struggling to support her five children through her small shoe-shining business.

The bulk of her financial issues related to loans she took from payday lenders. Due to their high interest rates, she saw little of her shop's profits herself. In order to make ends meet, Matilde started selling homemade quesadillas from a stall outside her store. The high demand for her food spurred Matilde to refocus her shoe business towards opening a restaurant. After a friend introduced Matilde to Grameen America, she used her first loan of $1,500 to invest in setting up her restaurant. Without the burden of payday loans, Matilde was able to increase her income and was no longer impacted by the stress of paying back high interest loans.

INVESTMENT THESIS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> GAI targets the large unmet need for affordable working capital by low-income women in the U.S., where over 14.2% of US households are underbanked and 4.2% are unbanked. Microfinance investment vehicles are a proven asset class with low correlation to other asset classes, historic average default rates of around 1% and the potential to generate significant social impact and financial returns.
IMPACT THESIS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Women have disproportionately low levels of access to finance to improve their economic mobility. GAI strives to democratize access to finance for low-income women; the firm does not require a traditional credit score or require collateral from new borrowers. Loans from GAI help members build their business, establish a credit history, and increase their income.
STRENGTHS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Strong impact and financial track record: GAI has a 15-year track record and has disbursed more than $4.7B across over 1,100,000 loans. The portfolio has created or maintained over 196,000 jobs and boosted annual business income by $2,557. To-date, GAI has maintained a 99% repayment rate and has never defaulted on an investor loan. GAI's management team and board bring unique microfinance and corporate leadership credentials. GAI builds on the 35+ year track record and lending model established by Grameen Bank founder and Nobel Peace Prize Laureate Muhammad Yunus, who originally founded GAI. CEO Andrea Jung has extensive leadership experience, overseeing 40,000 employees as CEO of Avon Products – where she was the longest serving female CEO in the Fortune 500. Andrea is a member of the Board of Directors of Apple Inc., Unilever, Rockefeller Capital Management and Wayfair Inc. She previously served on the boards of General Electric and Daimler AG. The 13-person leadership team has 300+ years of total experience and has exhibited low turnover with an average tenure of 8 years at GAI.
RISKS	A declining economy is a concern, as it could lead to borrowers failing to pay on their debt obligations, which could result in a deterioration of loan portfolio quality. Rising rates in the near future pose a risk as they lead to increasing financing costs for GAI, which would ultimately affect cash flows.
